Character And Tradition

London, June 20.
The full-dress nature of yesterday's Privilege Debate in the House of Commons was illustrated by the Ascot waistcoats of Mr. Baldwin and the Chief Whip. Hardly a seat was vacant in any part of the House except in the M.P.'s gallery on the right of the Chair. Practically the whole Ministry was squeezed on to the Government Front Bench. Mr. Churchill, speaking from the corner of the Front Bench below the gangway, was only a yard from the Ministers he was attacking, Sir Bolton Eyres Monsell, his nearest Ministerial neighbour, could be seen muttering a fierce commentary.

As Sir John Simon and Sir Thomas Inskip, flanking the Prime Minister and Sir Samuel Hoare, busily took notes of Mr. Churchill's accusations, one was forcibly reminded of a scene in the Law Courts. Both eminent counsel were obviously in their element.

Mr. Churchill got his best laugh when, assuring the House that he was not impugning the honour of Sir Samuel Hoare and Lord Derby, he said: "I will vouch for them."

But he was easily eclipsed when he slipped into the trap set a little later by Mr. Amery, who asserted that Mr. Churchill was always faithful to his motto, "Flat justice, ruat coelum" (Let justice be done though the heavens fall).

Mr. Amery was doubtless prepared with his vernacular translation, "If I can trip up Sam the Government's bust." But he can hardly have hoped that it would be Mr. Churchill himself who would ask for it.

Incidentally, the Marlborough motto is "Fiel pero desdichado," the Spanish for "Faithful but unfortunate."

ENGLISHWOMAN IN PAPUA
Miss Evelyn Cheesman, formerly curator of insects at the London Zoo, has returned from an eighteen months' trip entirely alone, except for the natives, in the primeval forests and mountains of Papua. She has brought a collection of 42,000 insects for the Natural History Museum, South Kensington, and she expects that at least two-thirds of the specimens she has collected will be entirely new.

"Most of my work," Miss Cheesman told a reporter "was done at an altitude of 9,000 feet up in the mountainous interior. It rained perpetually and most of the time I was up to my knees in mud." She found moths, often measuring ten inches across the wings and of extraordinary beauty; stick insects ten inches long with sharp spikes which could cause a very painful wound, and a little orchid which caught flies.

NEW BARRISTERS: FOUR WOMEN INCLUDED
Gray's Inn was the only one of the four Inns of Court at which there were no women among the new barristers called to the Bar last evening.

Four women were being called. They were Miss Dorothy Knight Dix and Miss Kathleen May Ingham, both students of the Inner Temple; Miss Alice Raven, of Lincoln's Inn; and Miss Mary Caroline Davies, of the Middle Temple. Miss Davies is the eldest daughter of Mr. Daniel James Davies, chairman of the Newfoundland Fishery Board, who was till last year Acting High Commissioner in London for Newfoundland.

Altogether, 114 students took their call—Middle Temple 39, Inner Temple 30, Gray's Inn 24, and Lincoln's Inn 21. The proportion of women to men is roughly the same as it has averaged over the past few years—namely, about one in twenty.

TEA IN HIS OLD ROOM.
The King and Queen of Siam visited Eton College to-day, where they were the guests of the Headmaster and Mrs. Elliott. They inspected the Italian garden, which was the King's gift to Eton to commemorate the time (1908-10) he spent at the school as Prince Prajadhipok.

The luncheon party included... The Vice-Provost (Mr. C. H. K. Marten), the Lower Master (Mr. A. E. Conybeare), Mr. J. H. M. Hare (the King's former House Master), Mrs. Hare, Hon. George Lytton (the King's former Tutor), and Miss Coward (his Dame).

After luncheon, during a tour of the school, the Captain of the School (M. P. M. Ollard, Esq.) and the Captain of the Oboists (C. C. Tripp) were presented to the King and Queen. They saw first afternoon Absence, and later watched on Agar's Plough the cricket match between the School and the Household Brigade.

Before leaving, the King visited his old house in Common-lane. Here, with the Queen, he had tea in his old room in company with the present occupant. They were waited on by three fags.

MANAGED WITHOUT THE MIKE
Last night's Canada Club dinner to Mr. Jackson Dods, president of the Canadian Bankers' Association, introduced a new public speaker. This was Commander Stephen King-Hall. Although he is well known as a writer and broadcaster on almost every conceivable subject, this was his first public speech.

He had a written manuscript in his hand, but his delivery was so good that there was no impression of a read speech.

The material, too, was witty and commendably brief.

His most amusing effort was his invocation of Holy writ in connection with the American war debt. He recommended to the Americans present a perusal of the first two verses of the fifteenth chapter of Deuteronomy.

The verses run as follows:
At the end of every seven years thou shalt make a release. And this is the manner of the release. Every creditor that lendeth ought unto his neighbour shall release it; he shall not exact it of his neighbour or of his brother.

Unfortunately, King-Hall said, Congress seemed to be concentrating its attention on verse three: "Of a foreigner thou mayest exact it again."

MASTER OF THE GREENSWARD
Sir Philip Ben Greet fills with distinction the picturesquely named office of Master of the Greensward at the Regent's Park Open-Air Theatre.

He is venerable, suave, and informative. I thought his introductory remarks on the production of "Comus" admirably calculated to stir the interest of the audience.

I did not, however, follow his statement that "Comus" was Milton's only play. "Samson Agonistes," though ignored, can hardly be altogether forgotten.

Indeed, it better fits the description. "Comus" is not really a play, but a masque—a very different thing.

By the way, the greensward over which Sir Philip presides is rapidly becoming a misnomer. The stage now resembles the Trent Bridge wicket on the last day of the Test.

NEW BELGIAN FOREIGN MINISTER

M. Henri Jaspar, the new Belgian Foreign Minister, is a familiar figure here. An honorary K.C.M.G., he rather enjoys, when in England, being addressed as "Sir Henry."

He has decided views, and has proved himself a strong negotiator in international questions. At the Peace Conference, and even more at the Dawes and Young Conferences—over the latter of which he presided—he played a notable part.

Being himself a man who believes in expressing his opinion clearly and vigorously, he has a great admiration—fully reciprocated—for Mr. Lloyd George and Lord Snowden.

Like Mr. Lloyd George, M. Jaspar has a fine shock of white hair.

CELTIC LADY LONDONDERRY
I was interested in the fresh evidence Lady Londonderry's little book, "Character and Tradition," which has just appeared, presents of the intense attraction the Celtic spirit has for her.

It is an extraordinary tribute to the tenacity of the Celtic tradition that Lady Londonderry should feel so much a Celt as to speak of "our race," and point out "the fact too little realised, especially in England, how much we have inherited from our Celtic ancestors."

On the paternal side she is wholly English, of good Lincolnshire family. Indeed, her father, the late Lord Chaplin, looked and was a typical John Bull.

The Sutherland family, to which her mother belonged, had long ceased to marry purely Highland brides, although her grandfather, the third Duke of Sutherland, married a Mackenzie of Cromartie.

YEMENI MINISTER FOR LONDON?

It is probable, I hear, that the Imam of Yemen, who some time ago entered into treaty relations with Great Britain, may appoint a representative in London.

His recent adversary, King Ibn Saud, has had a Minister here for some years.

The Imam's choice is limited. Of all his advisers in Sanaa only one, a Turk, speaks French. Not one knows English.

I understand that the Imam may appoint an Englishman.

If a well-known Orientalist becomes Yemeni Minister he will presumably attend Court functions in full Arab dress.

Such an appointment would be no new departure in diplomacy, more particularly Eastern diplomacy.

Until a few years ago the Counsellors of both the Chinese and the Siamese Legations in London were held by British nationals. One of them, the late Sir Halliday Macartney, was a maker of history.

After a long residence in China he became Counsellor and Charge d'Affaires of the Chinese Legation in Paris. He was there at the time of the Franco-Chinese War over Tonkin.

Subsequently transferred to London, with the rank of a Chinese Minister Plenipotentiary, he was involved in two sharp conflicts with the British Foreign Office, one over the "Chinese Slavery" controversy, the other over the kidnapping by the Legation of the late Dr. Sun Yat Sen.

On both occasions, when defending Peking's case at the Foreign Office, Sir Halliday referred to his Government as "We Chinese."

Pig Breeding

[The Editor, The "Hong Kong
Daily Press"]

Sir.—The Government is to be congratulated upon the appointment of a Commission to enquire into the possibility of improving the breeds of pigs and poultry in the New Territories, as well as increasing their numbers.

One of the chief difficulties of raising a satisfactory breed of pigs is the problem of feed. In England it is an axiom that a grain-fed pig is a much better animal than one fed mainly on "swill".
This is, by the way, at the root of the farmer's objection to the cottage's pig. He fears that his grain will be scrounged. The New Territory pig gets far too little grain and too much garbage, and this is probably one of the reasons why he is an unsatisfactory and delicate creature.

In this connection the Commission will doubtless consider very carefully the reference made by the Chairman of the Hong Kong Brewer and Distillers, Mr. Dodwell, at the recent annual meeting, to the plans for the disposal of the Brewery's waste products—among which are spent grain and yeast
which constitute a very valuable food for both pigs and poultry.

The Brewery is equipped with an up-to-date laboratory, in which experiments are at present being conducted on the uses to which this spent grain and other waste products might be put. The Brewery Co. would doubtless, if approached, be prepared to place
this laboratory and the results of its researches at the disposal of the Commission.

EX-COUNTRYMAN

SAILING BY MOONLIGHT

Winning Flags For Ingomar And Spook

Shanghai, June 28.
The first moonlight yacht race
of the season took place on Tuesday evening under ideal sailing conditions, and ten yachts participated in the event, which brought about some very close racing, barely five minutes separating the first and last boat in Ingomar made excellent work of the boat home and ran into a long lead, sufficiently to give her the win by a bare margin over Rover on handicaps in "A" class, while Spook led the Byrnes boats
on both legs.

With a bright moon lighting up the river to such an extent that every object for some distance
could be seen, better sailing conditions could not have been asked for on the return leg. The southerly wind made it a run before the wind all the way for the down-river leg and the heat back was accomplished in very good time. The skippers of the various craft made it a point to see that large parties were present on all the boats, and, despite the detrac-tion from serious sailing caused by the presence of many of the fair
sex in these parties, very creditable performances were put up, and the times were especially fast.

Mignon and Spook.
Mignon got away to the best start in the miscellaneous class, closely followed by Viking, Ingomar,
and Ella with Rover and Winsome astern. Spinnakers were set and the laggards drew up, the Winsome's huge spread of sail taking her ahead, so that she finished second only to the Mignon, the latter having retained her lead to the end. It was necessary to gybe off the Tungku buoy.

The Spook started with the miscellaneous class, which was according to the orders for the day,
but the others waited for ten minutes, thinking they were to start in the usual manner. Despite this, elapsed times were taken, and ten minutes deducted from the last three Byrnes boats, giving their standing "as against the Spook".
The others were very close, Phooka finishing ahead of Sheila, with Pixie following.

Under The Moon.
A glorious moon made the return leg very pleasant, and, with a strong breeze to assist them, the fleet got back in under an hour.

It was a beat all the way and Ingomar soon went ahead, though she did not have the best of the start, Viking and Mignon being passed by both Ingomar and Winsome, while Rover hung on very closely. Ingomar ran into a long lead and finished up over a minute ahead of the Winsome, while Viking, Mignon, and Rover followed very closely bunched. Despite handicaps Ingomar was able to retain pride of place, but Rover was so well up on the others that she took second, with Viking third.

Of the Byrnes boats, Spook again got away from the others and led them for the distance back, but Phooka hung on very closely, only to drop back at the beginning of the Tungku Reach, almost allowing Sheila to pass her and the finish between these two boats was most exciting, a bare second separating them.

TEST SELECTOR SEES LARWOOD

But Bowler Does Not Go All Out

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, June 28.
On a batsman's dream of a wicket
the bowlers of Notts and Essex
have had a very prosperous
time here to-day, and the fact that sixteen batsmen have been in and out since morning confirms the seeming paradox. Essex made only 184 in reply to the Notts first innings total of 371, and Notts added 187 for nine, so that they now lead by 344 with a wicket in hand.

The match was attended by Mr.
P. Perrin a member of the Test Selection Committee. Evidently
his special purposes was to watch Larwood and possibly Voce, but he ought to have been here last evening for that. Neither of them bowled all out to-day, although there was no question of their fitness.

Essex began the sunlit day so well that no wicket fell until a few minutes to three. The pitch, a slab of marble, was useless to the particular form of attack that Notts rely upon in the main, and Pope and Nichols, who were not out 17 and 7 at the start, with the Essex score at 29 for three and things looking black, lifted the total to 154 for the fourth wicket,
their partnership represented 134 most valuable runs in two and a half hours.

Voce's Slow Spinners
Larwood bowled at the opposite end to that from which he received his devastation. In the concluding half-hour of the previous evening,
and he used an off-side field again,
with only two fieldsmen out at leg
—near the boundary and at short mid-on. He did not bowl his fastest, and during the afternoon we had the uncommon spectacle of Voce bowling slow spinners. This more than anything indicated the discouraging state of the pitch, and it was not surprising to find that Garrd did not enforce the follow-on when the innings ended.

Essex had collapsed immediately Nichols left at 154. After a resolute and extremely valuable stay that included ten 4's. The last six batsmen made only 30 runs between them.

Pope was eight out, playing forward to Gunn. He had batted at his best for three hours, patiently watching for the loose balls, and hitting two 6's and five 4's off them.

The total was then 183, and Lar-wood, with deadly ease, finished off the innings by getting two wickets at 183 for only four runs. Larwood bowled ten overs, altogether in three spells, and his figures for the whole innings, despite to-day's half-speed more or less, represented
a triumph over adverse conditions.

Notts did far from well when they batted again at four o'clock with a handsome lead. They lost all but one wicket for a poorer total than that of Essex in the first knock.

ceived by P. Smith's "googly". This gifted batsman had batted 40 minutes, but he has not yet found his stride.

Larwood hit two sixes, and he,
Staples, and, of course, Keeton
were the only batsmen to reach double figures.

ATTEMPT TO FIRE ZOSE CHURCH

Priest Shoots At Bandits With Revolver

Shanghai, June 28.

An exchange of pistol shots between a plucky priest and a party of bandits, during which a fox terrier who chased the gang received a wound, took place last week when an attempt was made to burn the Roman Catholic church at Zose. A belated account of the affair has just been received in Shanghai.

Bullet scars have been left in the church, outside which the bandits opened fire on the Rev.
Father Savio when, with a stick in one hand and a revolver
in the other, he attempted to extinguish the fire started by the miscreants.

The motive of this strange attack is unknown. The police of Zengtongjiao village are making their inquiries into the affair.

Old Church.

The church at Zose (the "Shanghai Hills") is situated half way up the side of one of the hills.
Adjoining the church is a residence, where priests from Shanghai often spend a few days. On the top of the hill is situated the observatory and the new church building, now nearing completion,
which do not come into the story.

Fathers Zeng-Diniz and Ghera-
had been staying at the residence,
and on their departure on June 20, Father Savio was left alone. At 8 p.m., when he had turned in for the night and all lights were out, Father Savio heard the frantic barking of dogs. He slipped out into the corridor, and looked out of the window.

To the west he saw the trees by the cloisters clearly, their forms thrown into prominence by a light which was not that of the moon alone. Father Savio realised that something was wrong.

Quickly Father Savio returned to his room and seized his revolver.
Then he left the building and made straight for the "strange light" going along the corridor, which runs along the south side of the church.

Father Savio had been heard,
however. He noticed two men making for the stairway which descends to the west, where the stables are situated.

Seeing the fire, which was in its infant stage, at the south entrance to the church (the Women's Gate), Father Savio made for it. He tried to extinguish it by trampling
on it, and by beating it down with the stick he carried in his right hand—he kept his revolver ready to his left.

Bandits Open Fire.
Hardly had he touched the fire,
when a third bandit, whom Father Savio had not noticed, fired a shot at the priest. The bullet whistled past the priest's ear, went through the bottom of the gate, and pierced one of the pillars of the confessional barriers.

"Father Savio immediately
straightened himself up, left the fire to itself, and fired a shot in the direction of the three bandits, who took to flight. The priest heard one cry from them, "soutaou" meaning "let's get away".

"A fox terrier" joined Father Savio in the chase and as the priest went down the steps towards the stables he heard a second shot fired, this time aimed at the dog, who received a slight wound.

The priest continued his pursuit
as far as the aerial railway used for taking materials to the new church on the top of the hill, where he halted. He heard the bandits making their way hastily through the bamboo, going in different directions. Then he went back to the priest's residence, and woke up the servants, who had slept through the whole affair.

In front of the church he found a tin nearly full of petrol, and paper which had apparently been intended for the firing of the building. Father Savio's arrival had occurred just in time to prevent the blaze getting going properly.

Then Father Savio went to Zengtongjiao village at the foot of the hill and reported to the police,
who posted a guard at the church
and commenced their inquiries.

SHANGHAI HEAT WAVE

Record Consumption Of Water

Shanghai, June 28.

A slight, almost imperceptible falling off in the intense heat of the past three days was registered yesterday when the mercury
made a tremendous effort, but stopped at a maximum temperature of 102 degrees Fahrenheit,
according to the Siccawet Observatory Instruments. This was still half a degree higher than Monday's maximum, though almost a degree less than that of Tuesday.
The thermometer at Holy Trinity Cathedral reached 100.5 degrees.

Heat prostrations during the day were as far as can be ascertained, somewhat fewer than Tuesday, though a large number occurred. A check around the hospitals yesterday evening revealed
the cheering information that no fatalities were recorded, although more than one case was hovering
on the border line between life and death. The dread scourge of summer, cholera, has not put in an appearance. A large number of other summer diseases, mainly those attributable to unwise eating and drinking, have been treated in the city's hospitals, with hundreds, especially among the poorer classes, remaining under treatment.

The supply of water to the city
reached proportions unprecedented for the month of June in the history of the city. The Shanghai Waterworks Co. alone supplying over 57,000,000 gallons a day during the last three days. In addition it is estimated that private wells in the Settlement provided an additional 12,000,000 gallons.

Joys of Al Fresco Summer.
One custom which is surely unique to Shanghai, at least to China, is the habit of the poorer people have of sleeping in the streets during hot weather. When midnight approaches, the whole family—father, mother, grandparents, uncles, aunts and children,
to say nothing of the family animals—move bag and baggage on to the pavements, each bearing a quilt, and prepare to spend the night under the stars and street lamps.

Avenue Edward VII is always one of the most crowded of Shanghai's streets in this respect, although there are many others
where the poor folk congregate.
During this present heat wave the congestion of sleeping room became so great that both the Settlement and the French police authorities have been forced to detail special squads to see that sufficient space is left to allow traffic to move through the street.

Perhaps the next most popular locality in Shanghai for summer
sleeping accommodation is the Bund foreshore, where the few remaining blades of grass provide a softer foundation for the thin quilts. Although it is crowded, however, it can never quite approximate the joys of sleeping on one's own doorstep, or within easy reach of one's own lodging, in the eyes of the average coolie and, as a consequence, there are still a few choice square feet of accommodation for those sufficiently emera-gent to "take up their bed and walk."

What surely must be the world's most spectacular show of its kind
—the Aldershot Tattoo—had tonight its full-dress rehearsal, this evening. A magnificent co-ordination of military evolution, and mechanical ingenuity makes this show undoubtedly one of the finest
to be seen.

A constantly changing pool of beautiful lights—dark reds, pinks, greens, blues, and purple—was thrown upon the surface of the arena, heightening the dramatic effect of the vivid uniforms. Control was effected from the elaborate new "nerve centre" high above the grand stand.

Excerpts from "Tannhauser," the music played by the massed bands,
and the actors giving a series of visions from the opera, gained in its restrained beauty by contrast with the dash and excitement of the military items which preceded and succeeded it.

The final scene of "Tannhauser," brought a gasp of admiration from the audience. The lights slowly faded, and as they did so a giant cross was seen reflected on the gates of the castle.

Another item which drew tremendous applause was when the Grenadier and Coldstream Guards in the white and red uniforms of 1814,
formed in line and fired their rifles into the air. The flashes of the weapons could be seen moving evenly down one file from end to end, and then back again along the rifles of the rear file.

The Tattoo ended with the rally
of Empire, in which a giant representation of the "Empress of Britannia" was picked up by searchlights far off. The audience joined in the singing of "Abide with me,"
and the National Anthem.

increase of thousands on the corresponding night of last year.

RICHMOND HORSE SHOW

Great Schoolgirl Driver

(Special Air Mail Service)

The greatest applause—prolonged and richly deserved—at the Richmond Horse Show's opening day, was given for Miss Josephine Colebrook, the 16-year-old daughter of Mr. A. J. Cole-brook, of Fulmer, Bucks. Miss Colebrook was driving her father's well-matched team of bays for the first time in public competition, and so well
did she manage them—four horses to a coach—is a handful for so young a girl—that she defeated
some experienced campaigners, as
Mr. Claude Goddard and Captain
Bertram Mills, and to the delight of her father, who was with her on the box seat, and of the large attendance of spectators, she won the first prize, presented by the Royal Automobile Club.

Some two years ago Miss Cole-brook, a schoolgirl with her hair
still hanging down her back, drove the winning pair in the Marathon at Richmond, and she has only been driving a four-in-hand for about a year and then only in the holidays.

With more experience and the acquisition of one or two points still lacking in the handling of a team she may become as great
a whip as was Miss Brocklebank, who, by the way, is to be one of the judges of four-in-hands at Olympia at the forthcoming International horse show.

An innovation at Richmond today was a raised platform in the middle of the arena from which the judges of the jumping competition could observe every jump and assess the faults as made, instead of having to wait for record slips from assistants placed at each obstacle. The results were made known by the amplifiers
even before the horses and riders

RICHARDS

Completes A Double

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, June 20

The jockeys riding at Newbury
to-day all wore black armbands ourselves. A fatal accident at Beverly yesterday.

The first race—the Wiltshire Selling Handicap—was dominated by West Park, from H. Leach's stable. Gordon Richards deserted his old friend Golden King to ride West Park, who had odds laid on her and had the race won at every stage.

In the All-Aged Selling Plate, H.
Wragg rode Duddocagon for H.
Leach and Gordon Richards carried the Weyhill colours on Flying Spar II. The champion jockey was making up for his ill-luck
yesterday, when he had four seconds, and in this race he finished on his own lengths in front of Niemann with Duddocagon third.

Mrs. F. Ambrose Clark's On Post, carrying a 5lb. penalty, earned for a win at Kempton Park last Saturday, won the Newbury Summer Cup after a good race with Fox-bridge. Gordon Richards's mount.

HERODOTUS UNLACED

On Post had been behind Her-odotus in the Salisbury Cup, but with a slight pull in the weights
he now relegated the latter into the unplaced division.

On Post obviously is a hard ground specialist, and so is Robber Chief, who was made a hot favourite to-day. Robber Chief flattered two furlongs out, but ran on again towards the end to finish a good third.

There also was a reversal in the Manchester Cup form of Fox-bridge and Robber Chief. To-day's favourite had been well clear of Foxbridge at the finish of the Manchester race.

RACING AT NEWBURY

The Newbury Summer Race Meeting was begun yesterday, when there was a large attendance of visitors. Owing to the exceptionally hard going the fields were comparatively small. For instance, for the valuable Royal Plate there were only three runners, the winner being the Aga Khan's Osman Pasha, on whom Western rode to a grand finish.

There was a remarkable match
in the semi-final round of the Ranelagh Open Polo Cup competition, for Somerset House beat Aurora, the American team, from whom in a handicap match they would have received a start of 71 goals, by six goals to three. Not only did they win, but in the match they were the better side and the Aurora forwards were rather more than held by the play of Mr. L. L. Lacey, one of the greatest players of all time.

The Australian cricketers were saved from what almost threatened to be a collapse against Northamptonshire at Northampton yesterday
by Bradman and Chipperfield, who made a stand of more than 100 for the sixth wicket. They were all out for 224, and at the close of play the County had scored 35 for the loss of Bakewell's wicket off
the last ball of the day. Surrey were compelled by good bowling to score only slowly at Horsham against Sussex yesterday, and were out for 280. Sussex at the end of the day scored 31 without losing a wicket.

JOCKEY'S DEATHFALL

R. James, the well-known jockey, died early yesterday in the Beverly Dispensary and Hospital.

He did not recover consciousness
after his fall when riding Good Fish in the Hurn Selling Welter Handicap at Beverly Races on Wednesday. His mount came into contact with the rails when rounding the turn into the straights,
and James was heavily thrown.

His wife and mother made the long journey from Newmarket to Beverly, but he died four hours
before their arrival.

Although he was not in the front rank, James received a good deal of patronage, as he was "one of the strongest of the middle-weight jockeys. With his nickname of "Pecky" he was very popular among his colleagues.

RIDER KILLED IN RACE

Crash In Fog At 90
Miles An Hour

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, June 20.

A few minutes before the start of the Light-weight Tourist Trophy race to-day, Syd Crabtree, the Warrington rider, told me that he intended to go "flat out" on the first lap in a bold bid to take the lead on a machine which was admittedly slower than those of most of his rivals. Soon afterwards
he was dead.

Hurting through the mist and rain on the dread mountain stretch,
at a speed, which may have been anything up to 90 miles per hour, he misjudged the bend at the Stonebreakers' Hut, and crashed into a wall of the bridge. His skull and jaw were fractured.
Death was instantaneous.

A great personal friend of Crabtree, Syd Gleave, the Macclesfield rider, who won the race last year, passed a few moments later.
He saw the form of a man and the outline of a machine through the fog at the side of the road.
Gleave sped on, taking the same risks himself, not knowing that the form of a man was the body of his friend.

A girl in the stands waited expectantly for Crabtree to appear out of the fog. When his fate was known she went in a motor-car
with Crabtree's mechanic to Ramsey Hospital. She was very distressed when she was informed of his death.

Crabtree's death is mourned by every racing motor-cyclist. For twelve years he had ridden in T.T. races, and knew the course as well as anybody. He won the lightweight event in 1929.

He held a record for the biggest number of machine failures on the first lap. It was always his custom to go all out on the first round of the course, and the consequence has been frequent machine trouble.

It is a tragic coincidence that last night, when he went round the course with Mr. Theo Teinman, of Douglas, and the lady friend who was in the stand, that Crabtree pointed out the bridge where he met his death as a "particularly dangerous point."

Dare Not Retire

The tragedy has revived the question of whether the Auto Cycle Union should postpone the race
for at least an hour when conditions are bad. Several riders who covered the course at a speed of only 70 miles per hour to-day told me that they did not think it fair
to send men out to risk their lives at such speeds, when visibility was limited to 30 and 40 yards on such dangerous stretches as the mountain road, where Crabtree was killed.

There appears to be no unsurmountable difficulty in the way of postponement, and from the investigations which I made amongst the riders after the race, the majority of the competitors would appear to welcome a delay of at least an hour rather than go out in fog and rain, which trebles the hazards of an already dangerous course.

"No man dare retire before the race, one rider said. "If he does
he is branded as a coward, and will never get a chance ride again.
Most men, to-day, I am sure were frightened to death as they swept through the fog and rain, but they dared not go slow. If somebody sets a pace they have to try and keep up to it, or they might as well go out of racing entirely. It was dangerous enough to-day."

The race was won in gallant style by Jimmy Simpson, the most popular and at the same time most unlucky rider who has ever visited the island. Simpson was second in the Junior T.T. on Monday, losing to Guthrie by only nine seconds. To-day's victory was his first success.

To-day Simpson rode as if the fog did not exist. He took tremendous risks, but for once fortune smiled upon him, and he came through unscathed to win by a comfortable margin at an average speed of 70.81 miles per hour.

In view of the conditions, and the fact that Simpson lost half a minute on the start through difficulty in getting his engine to start, his victory will rank as one of the epic feats of the T.T. races.

Simpson has been riding in the races since 1922. His wife and child were at the starting point to-day, but Mrs. Simpson was so anxious that she could not bear to

of 1933, which ordered the complete

THE PERFECT EXTRA GIRL

The perfect extra girl has been found at last.

Many directors contend there is no extra girl who can be described as perfect, one who is always on time, who keeps up an adequate wardrobe, who knows and uses the ideal make-up, and who considers herself a vital part of a motion picture.

With these, Director Richard Boleslavsky disagrees, for he has declared he has found the 100 per cent. perfect extra girl.

She appears as one of many belles in Marion Davies' new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture, "Operator 13," which Boleslavsky is directing.

She is Ruth Magden, and she has been an "extra" for six years. She has won many contests for her perfect back, arms, legs and for her cheerful smile and personality.

She first looked toward a career as a singer. She had just begun an encouraging climb as a wireless artist, when, during the filming of a picture, she was struck by a falling arm-lamp which sent her to a hospital with serious injuries for many weeks.

She is always available. The casting offices know where to find her at all hours of the day or night. She makes her own wardrobe, continually adds to it and never wears the same evening gown in more than three pictures.

"I try to take my work conscientiously," she said. "I keep my wardrobe in good condition. The lady with whom I live helps me make my gowns. She watches all the bargain sales for me and buys the finest materials at the cheapest prices. Often, I dye and remake a dress or gown after I have only worn it once."

"I don't believe I have ever been late for a call to work. But even if I only get one day's work in a picture, I try not to treat it as just another day's work but take the attitude that my small role is a very important part of the picture."

"I don't keep late hours. Therefore, I am always refreshed and willing to work when I report in the morning."

Miss Magden will never be found between scenes, playing cards or exchanging jokes with other extra players. Instead, she retires to a chair on the side-lines, always within sight of the director or assistant director, and there she studies her books until she is called before the cameras again. Right now, she is studying international affairs, for she believes she is not enough versed in the important things that are happening in the world.

"Yes sir," said Director Boleslavsky, "she's the most reliable extra girl I have ever met."

FILM STAR KILLED

Former Miss Universe

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, June 29.

Miss Dorothy Dell, one of Hollywood's latest picture stars, was killed early this morning in a motor-car accident, when returning from a gay party at a roadside inn. The car, driven by her dentist, plunged off the road for some unexplained reason, broke a lamp-post and landed at the bottom of a ditch.

Such was the force of the impact that the car was telescoped to half its normal length. When

Young Players Given A Chance

In keeping with its policy of giving young players plenty of chance to get experience, Paramount has placed eight recent additions to the contract list in the screen production of Earl Carroll's "Murder At The Vanities." They are Toby Wing, Gail Patrick, Barbara Fritchie, Clara Lou Sheridan, Gwenllian Gill, Colin Tapley, Alfred Delambre and Julian Madison.

Leadings roles in the picture, which Mitchell Lelen is directing, are taken by Carl Brisson, Jack Oakie, Victor McLaglen, Kitty Carlisle and Gertrude Michael.

Miss Dell, daughter of a rich New Orleans lumberman, was a typical Southern beauty. She won the title of "Miss Universe" in a beauty contest in 1930, and subsequently played in Ziegfeld's Follies. Later she went to Hollywood, where after three years of more or less obscurity, she had just begun to receive star roles.

Her latest part was in a new picture entitled "Little Miss Marker."

"I LOVED A WOMAN"

Robinson In Drama Of Beef Barons

"I Loved A Woman," the first National production starring Edward G. Robinson—with Kay Francis—again presents the widely acclaimed hero of "Silver Dollar" with a role of romantic appeal—in a drama which vividly portrays a thrilling period in American life of the last four decades, with special reference to the machinations of the "beef barons" of Chicago.

"I Loved A Woman" is the life drama of one John Hayden, (son of a millionaire meat-packer) whose sensitive and artistic nature infinitely prefers the fragrant antiquities of Greece, to the malodorous stockyards from which the family fortune grew.

Recalled to America, to head the business by the death of his father, the young man is still more interested in collecting Grecian urns than in selling hams and bacon.

Unhappily married to the daughter of one of his fellow-packers, Hayden meets an ambitious young singer with whom he falls in love and whose career he willingly backs with his money.

When, in return, he discovers that the opera singer has made him only one of many in her life, Hayden cuts himself off from her, and throws himself with fiery enthusiasm into a career of ruthless business aggrandizement. Helping to create the Beef Trust despite the opposition of the Federal Government, he goes from success to success, culminating in winning huge war contracts with the Allies during the Great War.

When, however, he attempts to reach out and control food sources on a world scale, his colossal schemes topple of their own prosecution, he is forced to flee as an exile to Greece.

Kay Francis has the role of the opera singer who, despite her casual infidelities to her benefactor, proves to be his only loyal friend at the close of the drama. Genevieve Tobin plays the part of Robinson's vindictive wife.

Other members of the unusually large cast are Murray Kinnell, Robert Barrat, George Blackwood, Robert McWade, Henry Kolker, Walter Walker, J. Farrell Mac Donald, E. J. Ratcliffe, Paul Probst, William V. Mong, Morgan Wallace and Lorena Layson. Alfred E. Green, whose direction of "Silver Dollar" was greatly responsible for that picture's success, is the director of "I Loved A Woman."

"MY SONG FOR YOU"

Shepherd's Bush, June 4.

Maurice Elvey, has been hard work throughout the week with Jan Klepura, Sonnie Hale and Alleen Marson in further scenes for the new romantic comedy with music. One of the most amusing scenes in the picture has been completed; this shows Sonnie, as Jan Klepura's secretary, impersonating his master in a broadcast while the gay and adventurous tenor is playing truant to dine with his beloved, "Charlie," the secretary, makes a long speech into the "micro," giving a biographical account of his master which is, to say the least of it, somewhat far removed from the truth. Finally, he introduces "My faithful secretary, Charlie. He has made me what I am. . . . He is my secretary; no more, he is my very good friend. Come on, Charlie! Say a few words to the listeners!" "Oh, no, Mr. Gattil! I couldn't!" "Come on, Charlie! Don't be shy!" . . . and so on, with voices and gestures appropriate to the two "parts" he is playing. The speech was one of the longest ever recorded in the Studios; but Sonnie enjoyed himself immensely, being allowed to "gar" to his heart's content.

Now, as Trigger Hicks, semi-wild girl of the mountains, in her latest picture, "Spitfire," Miss Hepburn will be seen in yet another characterization, one radically different from anything she has heretofore attempted, and those who have been privileged to see this film unhesitatingly declare it to be the radiant star's greatest personal triumph to date.

How, in Just a Year, Hepburn Forced the World's Surrender

"Over-night fame" is now an expression that has been taken away from the press agents and adopted by the movie public because it at last happens, in one case, to be true.

Entering motion pictures late in 1932, Katharine Hepburn, absolutely without previous experience before the camera, was entrusted with a difficult role, and she more than justified this trust by turning in a performance of such stellar quality in "A Bill of Divorcement" with John Barrymore that it became the sensation of the picture.

Katharine Hepburn had played a few roles on the New York stage after a bit of stock experience, scoring a hit in "The Warrior's Husband" and saving it from failure through the sheer power of the performance she gave. This won her a movie contract with RKO-Radio Pictures. This company threw precedent to the winds by casting her in a good role for her first appearance before a camera. The fact that she drew attention opposite so strong an actor as John Barrymore was thought by some to be because her role in that play had always spelled success for actresses playing it. Miss Hepburn scored again in her second picture "Christopher Strong" now as a star and her constantly growing army of admirers was satisfied that she had really arrived. The skeptical ones still held back, however. Then she appeared as the star of "Morning Glory" and her partisans fairly shouted, but her critics still said "The role was made in order for her, wait and see."

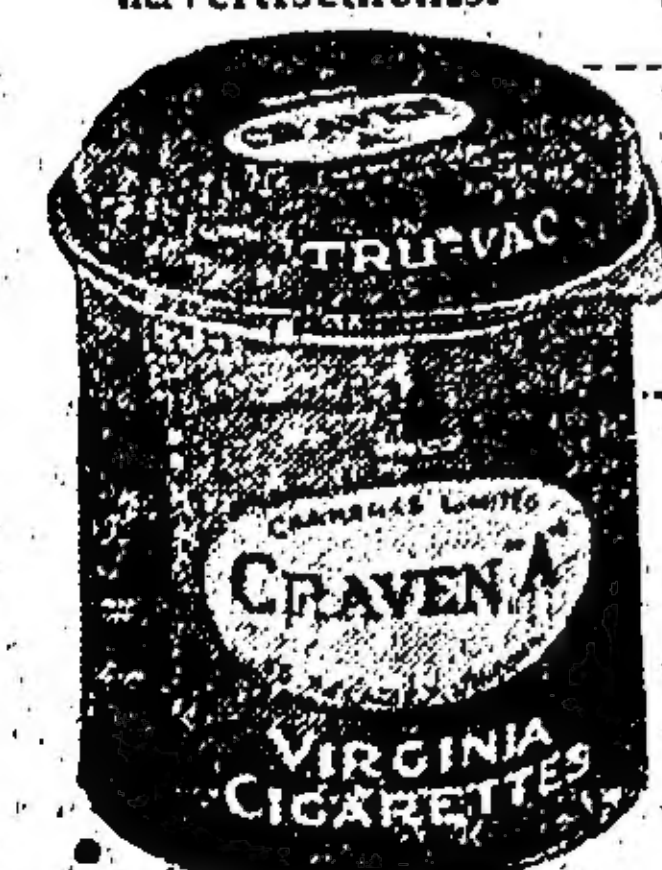

Then came "Little Women" and with it the admission from each and every one of Katharine Hepburn's former critics that she was then in as solid a position, as it was possible for a screen actress to be. There was something dramatically glamorous about her first three screen roles, but as Jo March in "Little Women," she proved her sincerity and talent by presenting a convincing real girl—a glorious tomboy in the early scenes, and a real "Little Woman" as her life developed.

Venice is a difficult city in which to shoot exteriors. The oldest and most picturesque parts of the canals are the narrowest for the most part; cameras and sound-apparatus mounted in boats clutter up the fairway, causing rude remarks from gondoliers in a hurry; the boys who hold the number-board and clappers in front of the camera before each shot to mark the picture—and sound-tracks must needs go about their business swimming; and, what with one thing and another, Venice is not the ideal film "location."

But Victor Saville directing "Evensong" at the Shepherd's Bush Studios, suffered no qualms, when he reached, ultimately, the Venetian sequences of the picture. "The unit will not go to Venice. We will bring Venice to the Studio," said Mr. Saville, in effect, and an army of carpenters and scene-shifters saw to it that it was so.

Low walls of wood, enclosing an area on the studio floor of 40 x 60 feet, were fixed in place. They, and the floor which they surrounded, were carefully coated with pitch; water was let in, to the extent of 20,000 gallons, and Mr. Saville had his Venetian canal. To build quaint, balconied houses on either side, to span the canal with a sudden, hump-backed bridge, were matters of simple set-building routine; and when several of the curious Venetian mooring-posts, striped like gigantic barbers'-poles, were placed in the water, and two genuine gondolas, specially brought from Italy, floated peacefully on its surface, the scene was as Venetian as anyone could wish.

In the large and more luxurious of the two gondolas sat Evelyn Laye, as the opera-star Irela, with her handsome admirer (Carl Simon) listening to the singing of the gondolier and his companion with sighing piano-accordeon. From the bridge came the tinkle of guitar and mandoline; Irela, exalted by the canal, the music, and the warm glances of her companions, sang also, bringing down on her head frantic upbraiding from her manager, Coburg (Fritz Kortner) who awaited her return on the balcony with her duenna (Muriel Aked). Opera-stars, even when transported with happiness, must not sing on Venetian canals. To expose that marvellous throat to the damp air of the canal! Monstrous! . . .

It is interesting to note that Mr. Browning Mummery, the singing gondolier, holds what must surely be a record in broadcasting. In the course of a radio-engagement in America, he has been on the air 385 times in one year. He is, of course, famous in Grand Opera, and appeared frequently with Melba. An interested spectator of this scene was the famous Hollywood actress, Genevieve Tobin, who is in London on holiday. Miss Tobin and Miss Laye first met when Miss Tobin was playing in the stage-play, "The Trial of Mary Dugan," and subsequently in Hollywood, where the two became fast friends. The acquaintance was renewed two years ago, when Genevieve Tobin was in London making a British picture, and one of the first visits made by Miss Tobin on the occasion of her new visit to England was at the Gaumont British studios to look up her old friend.

MISS YVONNE SHENTON

Summoned For Speeding

Miss Yvonne Shenton, the daughter of the Hon. Sir William Shenton, was summoned before Mr. Hamilton at Central Magistracy yesterday for speeding in a controlled area—Whitfield.

Mr. W. A. Mackinlay, of Messrs. Deacons, tendered a plea of guilty to a technical offence for Miss Shenton, who, he said, was in hospital. The plea, however, was not accepted.

The summons alleged that Miss Shenton travelled through Whitfield at a speed of 30 miles per hour during tiffin time.

Mr. Mackinlay: I have not seen Miss Shenton. I have only received very short instructions and they are to plead guilty.

His Worship:—It is a serious business.

Mr. Mackinlay:—I should like to know what was the danger. I don't want to make any admissions on Miss Shenton's behalf, except to plead guilty to a technical offence.

Traffic-Inspector Nicoll stated that Miss Shenton drove through Ah King's slipway and the Whitfield market.

His Worship:—It is obviously dangerous. I won't accept a plea of guilty to a technical offence.

Mr. Mackinlay:—I think it would be fairer to Miss Shenton if I could get further instructions.

His Worship said he was prepared to adjourn the case for Miss Shenton to attend.

Mr. Mackinlay:—My instructions are to plead guilty to the offence as charged.

A fine of $10 was imposed.

Other Cases

Lam Man, driver of motor lorry No. 2221, was fined $15 for dangerous driving in Hollywood Road.

Traffic-sergeant McInnis said the defendant was speeding at 15 miles per hour, and there were about a thousand people walking through the street. It was a case of every man for himself.

Leung Mun, driver employed by Mr. G. G. N. Tinson, of Messrs Johnson, Stokes and Master, was summoned for speeding, a moving motor-lorry in Whitfield, a controlled area on June 6.

Appearing on behalf of the defendant, Mr. Tinson tendered a plea of guilty to a technical offence. The road, he said, was absolutely clear and he pleaded guilty to an offence "which we were perfectly justified to commit". The lorry, loaded with sand, was travelling at no more than eight miles per hour. It occurred at the far end of Whitfield.

Defendant who had a very good record was cautioned.

A SERIOUS OFFENCE

Remarking that he took a serious view of the case, Mr. Hamilton at Central Magistracy yesterday passed sentence of three months' hard labour on a boat builder on a charge of wounding a woman and her husband, with an axe.

Sub-Inspector Armitst stated that defendant worked for complainants for twenty years up to the end of November last year, when owing to the depression, work ceased.

Defendant still had $8.50 owing to him up to May this year. The couple were unable to pay and defendant found work of his own.

While at meals on Monday morning, defendant was told to finish his food and go to work. He replied that he did not want to go to work and asked for his money.

Complainants said they could not pay immediately but could do so in two days' time, whereupon defendant picked up an axe and

"slashed" at the woman and when her husband intervened, he also was attacked.

On charges of returning to the Colony after having been banished and of stealing a radiator cap from a car belonging to Mr. B. W. Simmons and another from a car owned by Mr. Tang Yuk Wai, Cheung Yau, aged 35 was sentenced to six months' hard labour by Mr. Hamilton at Central Magistracy yesterday.

It was stated that the caps were found in defendant's girdle.

OLD CEMETERIES AT MACAO

An Appeal For Funds

The Trustees of the old Protestant Church and Cemeteries at Macao, namely the British and German Consuls-General at Canton, and the Netherlands and American Consuls-General at Hong Kong, and Mr. F. J. Gellion of Macao (Resident Trustee) supported by the Right Reverend R. O. Hall, Bishop of Hong Kong, appeal to the Protestant communities of Hong Kong and China for funds to restore the Church and especially the old Cemetery at Macao.

The old Cemetery has fallen into a lamentable state. As a mere resting-place for the dead, the enclosure is a reproach to the Faith to which its occupants belonged. But its condition is the more to be deplored when it is remembered that within its walls rest the remains of distinguished members of naval, military and civil services, the majority of whom lost their lives whilst procuring for foreigners in China those early privileges which have since become so largely developed. There also lies buried in this Cemetery many merchant pioneers, to whose enterprise and energy existing commerce in China owes its first impulses of life and activity.

The Church was built originally by the East India Company in 1814 as a Mortuary Chapel and in the adjoining Cemetery lie buried a number of the early European and American residents in the Far East. These include:—

Dr. Robert Morrison, D.D., the pioneer Protestant Missionary to China and first translator of the Scriptures into Chinese. Buried August 1834. His centenary will be observed this year at Macao.

Lord Henry John Spencer Churchill, R.N., Commander of H.M. S. Dryad, Son of Duke of Marlborough. Buried June 1840.

Captain Sir Humphrey Le Fleming Senhouse, R.N., Senior Naval Officer, British Fleet in China Seas. Buried June 1841.

Edmund Roberts, Esquire, Special Diplomatic Agent of U.S.A. Buried June 1836.

John F. Brooks, M.D., Fleet Surgeon to the U.S. East India Squadron. Buried October 1849.

Sir William Fraser, Bart. Chief of British Factory in China.

Buried December 1827. Thomas W. Waldron, Esquire, Consul—U.S.A. Buried September 1844.

Lieutenant John Astell, R.N., Buried October 1840.

Lieutenant Edward Fitz Gerald, H.M.S. Mosdese. Buried June 1841.

S. Burge Rawle, Esquire, U.S. Consul Macao. Buried September 1858.

Captain Daniel Duff, 37th Regiment Madras Native Infantry. Buried July 1841.

Lieutenant Benjamin S. Gaunt, U.S. Navy, U.S. Ship "Marion". Buried March 1852.

and the famous artist Mr. George Chinnery, buried in 1852. There are also a number of German and Dutch graves.

Funds Urgently Needed

The small endowment of the Trust has unfortunately proved insufficient to preserve the Church and old Cemetery in good condition, and the trustees are faced with the urgent necessity of making extensive repairs.

An estimate has been obtained for the necessary repairs, including replacement of the broken-down portions of the Cemetery wall, repainting of cracks in the Church, painting, varnishing and repairs to woodwork, renewal of pathways, and extensive repairs to boundary walls and entrance arch. It is improbable that the work can be completed for less than $3,000, allowing for the fact that one of the trustees has offered to become responsible for certain additions, improvements, such as re-cutting the inscriptions, planting trees and setting up fallen head-stones.

The undersigned feel convinced that the foreign Protestant communities in China will agree with them in holding the restoration of this historical Cemetery and Church to be a public duty, and they therefore make this earnest appeal in the hope that, in spite of the prevailing depression, a special effort will be made to subscribe the sum of $5,000, in order to place matters permanently on a more decent and reverent footing.

The Chartered Bank of India, Australia and China at Hong Kong has kindly consented to receive subscriptions and the Resident Trustee at Macao, Mr. F. J. Gellion, will undertake the suitable disposition of any funds subscribed.

EXTRADITION CASE

Bandit Wanted By Chinese Authorities

Wanted by the Kwangtung Government for an alleged robbery in Kiao Kong district in January 1930, Leung Shu Fan, alias Leung Kit Man, 44, was brought before Mr. Hamilton at Central Magistracy yesterday when extradition proceedings were made against him.

Mr. J. A. Fraser, assistant Attorney General, appeared for the Crown, and Mr. J. B. Prentiss represented the accused.

Outlining the facts, Mr. Fraser said that the case was one under the Chinese Extradition Ordinance No. 7 of 1889. The wanted man was Leung Shu Fan, alias Leung Kit Man. He was wanted by the Chinese authorities in Kwangtung for a robbery in Yeung Chun district, Kiao Kong in 1930. The circumstances of the robbery were that before the actual appearance of the accused and his gang in the village, a letter was sent to a master of a certain shop in that district demanding a sum of $5,000. No payment was made and the letter was purported to come from the accused who was a well-known man in the district.

Mr. Fraser then explained that he could not prove who wrote the letter, and he did not know the letter itself was evidence insofar as it showed the motive for the robbery.

Shortly after the letter was sent, the accused and his gang, armed with rifles and Lewis guns attacked the shop, the door to which, however, was bolted as the inmates knew what was coming. The robbers, however, managed to force open the door and took away a quantity of jewellery and clothing to the value of $4,000.

His Worship: How long had the defendant been in the Colony—Mr. Fraser: Over a year.

After formal evidence had been given, Detective Sergeant C. Byron said that by virtue of a warrant he arrested the accused at 11, Salkung Road, Kowloon, City 3rd floor, at 11.05 p.m. on June 6, 1934.

Cross-examined by Mr. Prentiss, witness said that he did not make any enquiries as to how long the accused had been in the Colony.

Mr. Prentiss explained to his Worship that the reason why he asked the question was to avoid calling a succession of land-lords to prove that accused had been in the Colony for a period of 18 months.

Mr. Fraser remarked that he would not contest it.

Yung Ching Nam, master of the Man On Fertilizer Shop at Tien Tong Market, Sun Hing district, said that he knew the accused as Leung Shu Fan, alias Leung Kit Man. He used to live in Lien Tong Village, Sun Hing district. He had known him for about 7 or 8 years.

"He's a Bandit"

In reply to a question by Mr. Fraser, witness said that accused was a bandit.

On January 16, 1930, witness returned to his village, in Kiao Kong district, and shortly after he received a blackmailing letter demanding $5,000. The letter was delivered to him by two of accused's clansmen and fellow bandits. He, however, took no action to the letter, and the next thing happened in connection with this case was on January 25 when a gang of over 30 men, led by the accused, came to rob him. At that time he was standing outside the door of his house when he saw the men coming. He ran into the house and bolted the door. Besides him, there were three men and three women in the house. The robbers forced open the door and the accused directed them to ransack the house. They were armed with Mauser pistols and Lewis guns. Two of the robbers ordered the household to stand at the doorway of a cubicle. The robbers took $5,000 in Canton bank notes and $2,000 in silver. They made no attempt to conceal their acts. They remained in the house for about half an hour.

After further evidence had been given, the case was adjourned.

Hong Kong; F. J. Gellion, Resident Trustee, Macao; Herbert Phillips, British Consul-General, Canton; Dr. Felix Altenburg, German Consul-General, Canton; Ronald, Hong Kong, Bishop of Hong Kong.

There is no need to stress that this appeal is deserving of all the support that Hongkong can offer and it is to be hoped that the public will respond generously.

LEAVE TO APPEAL GRANTED

M. Y. San Co's
Affairs

The M. Y. San & Co. (1927) Ltd., 98, Queen's Road Central was granted leave to appeal by the Full Court yesterday morning in an action which concerns a large number of creditors.

Judgment was given by the Pulisne Judge, Mr. Justice Jackson, against the company last month when they were sued by Li Hong Ping, married woman, of 63, Bonham Road, for $825 balance due from the company as makers of a promissory note dated September 15, 1928, and payable within four years.

Mr. R. C. H. Lim, instructed by Mr. C. E. Lowe, of Denny & Co., appeared for appellants and said his application was based on a question of law.

The appellant's company was formed in 1927 to take over the assets and liabilities of the old company which was then in liquidation. The old company, the new company, and the creditors made an arrangement whereby the appellants were to give fully paid up ordinary shares to the unsecured creditors to the extent of 40 per cent. of their claims as allowed by the liquidator; and, after paying dividends on preference shares, should pay another 40 per cent. out of the company's profits each year.

In their defence to respondent's claim, the appellants had said that the document on which she claimed was not a promissory note; and, secondly, that if it were held to be a promissory note, it should be considered in conjunction with the deed of arrangement, and defendants should not be held liable on the ground that no profits had been made since 1932.

The learned Judge had held that the document was a promissory note and appellant submitted that this was not correct; that his construction of the document was wrong in law; and that he overlooked entirely the source from which the company were to make the payments.

The Chief Justice, Mr. A. D. A. MacGregor, said he and the Pulisne Judge concurred in granting leave to appeal.

Thirty-eight girls from the St. Louis Industrial Home went out to Repulse Bay, and eighteen had to stay behind because of an outbreak of influenza. The girls had a very enjoyable time, Mrs. M. K. Lo, Lady Ho Tung, and Mrs. Foster entertaining them.

Mr. Powell thanked those who placed their matched at the disposal of the party.

Mr. T. B. Paterson was welcomed as a new member of the Club.

Mr. Cassidy gave a brief speech on the question of free trade in Hong Kong. He said he was glad to note that the Government was going to appoint a commission to inquire into local trade. He was still a free trader, but he did not want to close his mind to what was going on outside. As a result of the inquiry by the Government it might be found that the time has come for some form of protection in the Colony, but as to that he was not sure whether he would be sorry or glad to see the Colony lose its free trade status.

HONG KONG, JULY 4, 1934.

THE ATTITUDE OF JAPAN

Shanghai has suffered recently from two incidents in which British subjects have been manhandled by mobs of Japanese hooligans. These incidents in Shanghai are to be attributed directly to that unfortunate day when Japanese troops making use of the Honkew settlement as a base, attacked the Chinese in Chapel. The whole action of the Japanese was inexcusable, as the Lytton report clearly declared. The destruction of Chapel, with all the loss of private property, and the killing of women and children by Japanese aeroplanes, is a terrible condemnation of the state of Japanese civilisation. An army by force of circumstances may be led to cause death to women and children accidentally. The deliberate action of the Japanese armed forces was abhorrent and repugnant to all decent minded people. That the Japanese should take action against China after their own fashion is no concern of Great Britain; but that such action should be taken from a settlement founded by and protected by British police cannot for one minute be excused. What is the result to-day? If one is to believe the reports from Shanghai, the police cannot do their duty in Honkew without molestation from Japanese armed forces. Why do not these armed forces control the mobs of Japanese hooligans? Obviously because they do not want to. It is high time that steps were taken to inform the Japanese government that Britain does not intend to accept any more of such incidents. If the Japanese forces who, without any authority, have usurped the functions of the police, cannot keep order, but become even a source of disorder, then the sooner they are removed from Shanghai the better. What is Britain afraid of? Any one who has seen the Japanese armed forces knows that they are no match for first class fighting nations and it is unlikely that firm action on the part of Britain will have any but satisfactory results. The Japanese people themselves are not at all imbued with this fantastic military spirit that has arisen. They are peaceful and lovable. If the Japanese militarists are not to be checked, then the British authorities in Shanghai are taking the big responsibility of encouraging them. Because that is what happens. The Japanese militarists become more and more objectionable and their insolence increases. They think that anything is permissible and that the excuses of a consular official are sufficient atonement.

Part of the indecision which seems to reign may be due to the development of communications. In the past British officials were compelled to act upon their own initiative. In these days of rapid telegraphs perhaps the home government does not realise the situation as it is. Hence the officials out in the East do not have the free hand which is essential to rapid decisions. Whatever may be the cause, which lead to a policy of drifting, in this case of the Shanghai Settlement and the maintenance of order therein, it is sincerely to be hoped that steps will be taken to ensure that the prestige of the flag will in no way be stained. Every act that tends to lower this prestige might have a bad effect on British trade, as such things do lower Britain in the estimation of the Chinese.

We sincerely hope that the Japanese forces in Shanghai will be asked to give an explanation of their attitude, and of their future attitude, and that such explanations will be published for all to read, and not merely kept in the dossiers of the chancelleries.

OBITUARY

Mr. J. E. Hope

Widespread regret will be felt by the announcement of the death, which occurred in England on Monday, of Mr. John E. ("Jock") Hope of the well-known London firm of John G. Hardy and Co., manufacturers of Scotch tweeds and woollen goods, of which he was director.

SAFETY FIRST!

Making Sure That Right Fee Is Paid

Enquiries made at Police Headquarters yesterday, elicited the news that the object of the new order requiring motor-car owners to furnish certificates of the weight of their vehicles on the licensing is to guarantee the payment of the correct licence fees.

It was pointed out that the information given by manufacturers of cars in many cases under-states the actual weights, with the result that in some cases the appropriate licence fees have not been paid.

As the result of the new requirement, calling for certificates of weight, the police state that already the revenue secured from licences shows an increase of something like $7,000.

HONGKEW TORN BY RIOTS

Police And Japanese Sailors Clash

Shanghai, June 29.

Mob frenzy was stirred to white heat in Hongkew early yesterday morning as a result of a clash between Japanese sailors and the Municipal Police, one of whose foreign members was held prisoner for several hours in the Japanese Landing Party Post at Chapoo and Haining Roads.

Rifles and bayonets, pistols, bricks and stones all figured in the trouble, which recalled serious incidents of recent years, but strangely no one was seriously injured and no shots were fired. Special precautions were taken by both the police and the Japanese authorities last night to prevent a further outbreak.

Although the Municipal Police flatly refused to utter a word in elucidation of the incident, eyewitness reports presented a reasonably clear picture of what happened and emphasized the gravity of the situation.

Woman Cause of Row

The trouble started shortly after 10 o'clock on Wednesday night when two Japanese sailors, walking on Chapoo Road near the Lion Cafe, were accosted by a Chinese woman and engaged in an argument with her. Passers-by said one of the sailors struck the woman in the face, causing her nose to bleed. Sergeant J. W. Bellamy and two Chinese constables were quickly on the scene and, according to one version of the incident, Bellamy asked the sailors to accompany him to Hongkew Station, but did not arrest them.

According to the Japanese version, however, the sergeant tried to arrest the pair on the spot and when they resisted "he drew his pistol and hit one sailor in the face with it. The other sailor at once ran to the Landing Party Post near Haining Road, whence a patrol was sent to the scene and the patrol took the supposedly injured sailor, Bellamy, and the two Chinese constables to the post, a crowd following.

Bellamy is understood to have denied he drew his pistol and the Japanese authorities do not insist he struck the sailor, although they are convinced he drew the gun.

At the patrol post Bellamy was closely questioned by the officer in charge and subsequently by a staff officer of the Landing Party, while outside the crowd was swelled by cinema-goers returning from the Japanese Town Theatre and three other cinemas in the neighbourhood. It was said that Bellamy was not allowed to telephone from the post.

Officials Summoned

Meanwhile the alarm had reached Hongkew Station and a large number of officers and men were despatched to Chapoo Road. They were augmented by divisional and headquarters officials. Among those who sought to mediate were Deputy Commissioner S. Uyehara, Capt. E. R. Kennedy, Assistant Commissioner and Divisional Officer, and Chief Inspector W. Robertson.

As the negotiations appeared futile, a call was sent for Mr. F. W. Gerrard, Commissioner of Police, who arrived shortly after 1 a.m. Mr. Gerrard conferred with the Japanese Staff Officer Lieutenant-Commander Yoshitatsu Yasuda, but apparently no conclusion was reached. The staff officer returned to his headquarters at 3.30. It was not until 4.45 a.m. that Bellamy was permitted to leave and in view of the threatening mob in the streets he was provided with a sizeable escort of Japanese sailors while members of the Municipal Police also closed in about him.

He was placed in a rickshaw and was started towards Hongkew Station with foreign and Chinese members of the S.M.P. pushing or pulling the vehicle. The attitude of the mob, however, grew more and more menacing as the strange procession moved along the street and several Japanese in the crowd tried to seize the rickshaw. Bellamy was struck in the back of the head, suffering minor scalp wounds, and a fight, started between the opposing factions.

POLICE START INQUIRY

Shanghai, June 30.

A police board of inquiry was yesterday considering the trouble which occurred between Settlement Police, Japanese sailors and mobs in Hongkew late on Wednesday night and early on Thursday morning.

In addition to the police inquiry a general investigation is planned in view of the proportions of the affair and the questions of authority and discipline involved.

The Japanese naval authorities meanwhile are awaiting the findings of the board of inquiry. They maintain that Sergeant Bellamy hit the sailor on the head or shoulders and that policeman drew his pistol; they assert they can prove these points. They further state that the sergeant was kept at the Landing Party Post in order that naval officers might get to the bottom of the affair then and there.

Quiet was reported throughout Hongkew last night.

Two young well-dressed and attractive female racketeers are making both the righteous and unrighteous of Harbin quake in their shoes, says a report from Shanghai. Their method of extortion is most original. The system is for one of these "ladies" to approach a man of ripe years, and in a firm voice demand $10, otherwise she threatens to create a public scandal then and there. As soon as the ice is broken, the second "lady" joins the party, and her trade is most convincing. She loudly asserts that she knows the victim, by now bewildered, that he is a Don Juan, that he has ruined

CHINESE GIRL DIES IN FIRE

Two Injured On Jumping To Safety

Shanghai, June 28. Trapped in a blazing room early yesterday morning ten-year-old Wong Keng-dee was burnt to death, her father, Wong Tsu-tsai, not being able to get into her room because of the flames. Two other occupants of the house suffered slight injuries in jumping to safety.

The fire took place at 48 Joffre Terrace at 3.30 a.m. and apparently broke out in the first floor back room, over the kitchen, in which Wong Keng-dee was sleeping. Wong managed to help his wife and young son to safety, but could not get to his daughter, who was heard once to cry for help. Mr. Wong Tsu-tsai, sometimes known as Mr. K. L. Vaughan, is a building contractor.

A woman and a twelve-year-old girl, who were sleeping in a room on the second floor, jumped from a drying stage, as the staircase had caught fire. They escaped with injuries, which did not cause them to be detained in hospital.

Fire damage to the house was practically confined to the room in which the girl died, and to the staircase, other portions suffering from water damage only.

GERMAN REVOLT AT AN END

A Momentous Cabinet Meeting Held

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).)

Berlin, July 2. In a proclamation to the German Press, the Reich Propaganda Minister, Goebbels, express thanks to the newspapers for the "discipline, straight forwardness and tact" shown in reporting the suppression of the Roehm revolt.

Sounding a note of warning that any attempt of disobedience and sabotage will be ruthlessly dealt with, the Home Minister, Frick, in a decree issued on Monday admonishes all State officials that under the present laws they owe their superiors unconditional obedience, faith and devotion. The events of June 30, so the decree stresses, had revealed that some individuals attempted to oppose the Fuehrer's wishes by pursuing their aim calculated to create trouble for the Fuehrer and the Reich Government and to destroy the National-Socialist State which is based on unconditional discipline and subordination. "Although no case of attempted sabotage is known on the part of State officials who are accustomed to strict performance of their duties, there should be left no doubt that every attempt to hinder the Fuehrer's great task will be duly punished."

ROEHM RELICS EFFACED

The Chief of the Stormtroops in the Province of Franconia issues thorough-going orders on Monday with the aim of blotting out every name of a cashiered commander by Roehm from the regiment of reformed Brownshirts, forces. The Roehm-invented "honour daggers" all of which bear the personal dedication from the dead Chief of Staff, were ordered to have the inscription filed away. All pictures of the rebel chief and his fellow conspirators were removed from all Stormtroop offices and the former honour title "Ernst Roehm House" effaced from the walls of his provincial headquarters.

The Franconian decree further emphasises that the vacation period scheduled by Roehm throughout the month of July for all Reich Stormtroops will be strictly enforced by the new Chief of Staff, Lutze. Accordingly during the present month all Stormtroopers are forbidden to wear uniform except while "on duty," while all minor officers have been ordered to reduce every type of duty as near as possible to zero for the entire 31 day period.—Transocean Kuo Min.

PRATISE FOR HITLER

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).)

Berlin, July 2. Hitler's vigorous measures in stamping out the revolt personally, forms the basis of praise for the Fuehrer in Berlin on Monday night.

The "Angrif" expresses the opinion that if the Chancellor sprang to shield the nation he would have exposed himself personally to the greatest danger but he went with an escort and overpowered some of the conspirators without a struggle. The absolute lack of nervousness on the part of the public is due to the energy with which Hitler and Goering, in person, throttled the outbreak and gave the German people immediate assurance of security.—Transocean Kuo Min.

LEADERLESS GROUPS

Berlin, July 2. A special order of Premier Goering confers full power to reorganise all Stormtroop groups left leaderless by Saturday's events, upon Daluge, the present head of the Prussian State.—Transocean Kuo Min.

WAR VETERANS' LOYALTY

Berlin, July 2. Germany's organisation of war veterans—Kryfhaeder League—on Monday issued a declaration of loyalty to Hitler and an indefinite postponement of the National Assembly Society scheduled to take place at Cashel from July 7 to 9. The telegram which was directed to the Fuehrer by Colonel Reinhard, says "The Stormtroop Reserve No. 2 or Kryfhaeder League, pledges loyalty to Hitler in the hour of difficulty with unconditional fidelity."—Transocean Kuo Min.

MOMENTOUS CABINET MEETING

Berlin, July 2. The Cabinet meeting arranged for to-day will be the most momentous since the inauguration of the Nazi regime. It will deliberate, inter alia, the future of Vice-Chancellor von Papen, and the fate of the Storm Troop leaders.

It is understood that Herr von Papen has already been exonerated from complicity in the plot. He is expected to be released and superseded in the Vice-Chancellorship by General Goering, the Prussian Premier and Reich Minister of Aviation.—Reuter.

STRASSER SHOT

Berlin, July 2. It is ascertained that Herr Strasser, the former Nazi leader, was among those shot.—Reuter.

UNDUE EXCITEMENT

Berlin, July 2. Excitement was renewed here this evening by the sudden barricading of the Wilhelmstrasse area. Huge, wondering crowds gathered beyond the police cordon, but it transpired that the measures were taken because Chancellor Hitler was paying a visit to His Majesty the King of Siam at the Hotel Adlon.—Reuter.

VON PAPEN FREE

Berlin, July 2. Vice-Chancellor von Papen is no longer detained. He was yesterday seen animatedly chatting in the street with General Goering after an hour's talk in which, it is believed, he exonerated himself from complicity in the counterplot. It is reported that he will remain in the Cabinet, but in another capacity.—Reuter.

VON PAPEN AT MEETING

Berlin, July 3. A momentous meeting of the Cabinet began at noon. It is still sitting.

Vice-Chancellor von Papen attended, but asked to be excused after a short talk and left the meeting. He was driven home, accompanied by a body guard of three men.—Reuter.

PRESS COMMENT

London, July 3. The situation in Germany continues to occupy the attention of leader writers.

"The Times" remarks that as far as methods of government and respect for human life are concerned, Germany has reverted to mediaeval conditions, but probably during the next few years there will be more reason to be afraid for Germany than of Germany.

Other commentators express the opinion that Hitler has come to an understanding with the Reichswehr for the disbandment of the Brown Shirts, in which connection, the "Daily Herald" declares that Herr Hitler will be in future a prisoner of the Reichswehr, the police and the Junkers. The "Daily Herald's" Paris correspondent declares that the shootings of Stormtroop leaders came as a sequel to the visit of Hitler's emissary, von Ribbentrop, to Paris. He asserts that von Ribbentrop promised M. Barthou that if France would agree to the German rearmament proposals Hitler would disband the Stormtroops.

It is alleged that the news of the Paris conversations leaked out in Berlin, that the Stormtroops leaders decided to resist disbandment, and that their scheme was given away by spies who reported the plot to the Secret Police, giving Hitler and Goering plenty of time to act and forestall it.—Reuter.

QUESTION AT COMMONS

London, July 2. The situation in Germany was the subject of a question in the House of Commons this afternoon, but the Foreign Secretary, in a brief reply, said the recent occurrences there had been fully described in the press and were also dealt with in official communiques issued from Berlin and Munich. His Majesty's Government, he added, were naturally following with close attention the course of events but he was unable at present to make any further statement.—British Wireless.

Miss Round beat Mlle. Payot, 6-4, 6-2.—Reuter.

Miss Hartigan (Australia) beat Miss Scriven (Britain) 3-6, 6-3, 6-1.

Madame Mathieu (France) beat Miss Palfrey (America) 6-3, 6-3, 6-2.—Reuter.

Miss Round Picks Up

London, July 3. Miss Round started poorly. Mlle. Payot led 4-2 but Miss Round improved as game went on with clever drives down the side lines. In the second set, Miss Round was very confident and went to the net on every occasion.

Repertoire of Strokes

Miss Jacobs' repertoire of strokes proved too many for Miss Aussem.

"The American player had terrific speed, chopping, cutting and volleying with deadly precision. The match lasted only 33 minutes.—Reuter.

Australians Watch Miss Hartigan's Play

London, July 3. The Australian cricketers saw Miss Hartigan their compatriot, beat Miss Scriven, whose serves were ineffective and in addition was guilty of double footfaults, but using her head and hitting to the Australian's weak backhand, she took the first set.

In the second set the Australian's powerful forehand was very successful in taking the first seven games against the service.

In the third set Miss Hartigan served brilliantly to Miss Scriven's weakest point, her backhand.

Frenchwoman's Come Back

Madame Mathieu staged a great come back in the first series of base line duels. She was steadier than Miss Palfrey and speedier. In the third set Miss Hartigan attacked strongly and got the Frenchwoman running from side to side. She led 5-3, but Miss Palfrey, overhit in attempting to force the pace and only won by 8-6.

In the third set Madame Mathieu was increasing her confidence while Miss Palfrey was losing touch.—Reuter.

POSERS AT PRIVY COUNCIL

Sir Leslie Scott's Arguments

London, July 3. Posers were levelled from the Bench at Sir Leslie Scott, who was arguing on behalf of the Colonial Secretary that robbery is necessary to constitute piracy.

The Lord Chancellor put a hypothetical case of persons boarding a ship and killing everybody but not stealing anything.

Sir Leslie Scott, replying, deduced from his argument it was not piracy according to the Law of Nations.

Lord Atkin: "Or if the ship was shot below the waterline and sunk, but nothing was stolen therefrom?"

Sir Leslie Scott fell back on authorities to show that robbery was an essential concomitant of piracy.—Reuter.

Baron von Neurath, Foreign Minister, welcomes the Royal visitors in Berlin.

CHINA'S NEW TARIFF

Upward Trend In Many Lines

Shanghai, July 3. The revised Customs' Import tariff which became effective on July 1 generally show a reduction of import duties on nearly all classes of cotton goods, but the revision on most other categories is in an upward direction.

The tax on gasoline and kerosene shows about 25 per cent. rise while jams and jellies go from 25 to 30 per cent, and coffee, chocolate, tea, bacon, and other canned goods, move up from 30 per cent. to 35 per cent. ad valorem.

Radios are also subject to a boost, the ad valorem duty being increased from 125 per cent to 15 per cent. Electric cookers, fans, etc., have increased 20 per cent. to 35 per cent.

Jewellery and ornaments have increased from 25 per cent. to 30 per cent., including pearls, both real and artificial.

Perfumery and cosmetics go up by 5 per cent.

These are the more popular items on the list enumerating no fewer than 672 categories of goods.—Reuter.

JAPANESE CABINET RESIGNS

Viscount Saito Ordered To Carry On

Tokyo, July 3. The Throne has accepted the Cabinet's resignation.

Viscount Saito, the Premier, has been instructed to carry on pending further orders.

Many political men are of the opinion that the Throne will command Viscount Saito to form a fresh Cabinet, though an important section of the Army and Navy leaders declare that the graft scandal is deep rooted and serious. Viscount Saito is not eligible, so a surprise appointment is possible. Prince Saloni, whose recommendation to carry on has very great weight, arrives in Tokyo to-morrow morning.

It is forecasted that the foreign Army and Navy Ministers will enter the new Cabinet to ensure a continuation of the present policies.—Reuter.

SPECULATION AS TO THE NEXT PREMIER

Tokyo, July 3. Well-informed people are of the opinion that Viscount Saito is the best bet for the next Premier. Nevertheless speculation is rife and most conflicting.

General Ugaki, Count Kiyoura, Baron Hiranuma Ikk, President of the Privy Council, Suzuki, President of the Suiyukai and Admiral Kanjiko are mentioned as possibilities.

In any case a return to party government is definitely ruled out and the consensus of informed opinion is that the new government will be non-party and closely pursue the present policies, especially fostering friendly relations abroad and consolidating the position in Manchukuo.—Reuter.

CUT AND DRIED POLICY

Tokyo, July 3. It is confirmed that the Emperor has summoned Prince Saloni to Tokyo.

It is learned that the Genro will arrive to-morrow morning at 9.40 and only stay a few hours, which is considered as tending to confirm the belief that the policy is cut and dried.

Prince Saloni will recommend Viscount Saito and the Emperor will command Saito to form a fresh Cabinet in which there will be sweeping changes.—Reuter.

VISIT TO PALACE

Tokyo, July 3. The Japanese Cabinet has decided to resign. The Ministers met at 10.25 a.m. to-day and reached an unanimous decision within a few minutes.

Viscount Saito proceeded to the Palace at 1.30 p.m. to submit the Cabinet Ministers' resignations to the Throne.

When the Cabinet met at 10.25 a.m. the Minister of Justice submitted an informal report of the Kuroda scandal.

It is understood that the report indicated a graft deeper and more widespread than was originally believed. Fresh evidence is alleged to have implicated a Cabinet Minister and an ex-Cabinet Minister.

THE CORRUPTION CASE

Tokyo, June 27. The Premier, Viscount M. Saito, Baron T. Yamamoto, Home Minister, and Mr. Korekijo Takahashi, Finance Minister, have agreed upon their resignation as soon as the inquiry of the corruption charges against high officials of the Finance Ministry has been completed by Mr. M. Koyama, Minister of Justice. It was learned reliably to-day.

Following the regular meeting of the Cabinet Council on Tuesday, the "big three" of the Saito Cabinet considered their attitude in connection with the corruption case. The decision of Mr. Takahashi to resign, taking direct responsibility for the case, was very firm and could not be altered, the other two Ministers found.

According to the latest information from reliable sources, elder statesmen of the country are still favourable to the Saito Government and may suggest that the Emperor should reject the resignation of the Cabinet when it is submitted. It is also reported that the elder statesmen desire the Emperor to order Viscount Saito to form a new cabinet, should the present one resign.

Craigengower Beat U.S.R.C.

As a mark of respect to Mr. Lo Cheung-shiu, father of Mr. M. K. Lo and Mr. M. W. Lo, the "A" Division Lawn Tennis League encounter between South China and the Kowloon Cricket Club which should have been played yesterday at the K.C.C. was postponed.

Owing to the sudden shower which fell just before the finish, the match between the Hongkong Cricket Club and the Club de Recreio which was played on the former's ground had to be abandoned. SWIMMING GALA

Attractive Programme For Saturday

(By "Salmon")

The swimming gala to be held at the Victoria Recreation Club on Saturday should prove to be a good attraction to followers of local athletics.

It will be the first real tryout of the season for the "cracks" of the premier swimming club in the Colony.

The programme is sufficiently varied to cater for all tastes. There will be free style swimming races for the "A" and "B" Classes in the Club, while the "C" Class contenders will race over a variety of strokes, (breast, back and free style). There will be a team race, a water polo match, diving exhibition, and a ladies race.

With regard to diving the Club has recently fixed two new boards, one a springboard and the other a high diving board. Quite a number of members have shown versatility at diving off the springboard and an equally large number are showing fine promise of going close to the high diving championship this year. Saturday will show just how much talent there is in the Club.

Record Entry.

The "A" Class race over 100 yards will be a close affair and I think the winner will have to register 60 seconds or better. Although Lawrence will probably start favourite for this event, I hear very encouraging reports of E. B. da Rosa, who is moving very well this season. He is reported to have done the "50 yards" in a fraction over 25 seconds, and at this race, he should be a big factor against Lawrence on Saturday. Others who will swim in the "A" Class are L. R. Pereira, T. Padgett, Geo. Lynn, A. A. Rosa and H. Ozorio.

There are no less than forty-eight entries for the team race, and this number easily constitutes a record. I understand that probably four teams of twelve-a-side will be picked, but I don't envy the task of the person responsible for picking the teams.

Miss Doris Hunt, Miss Veronica Allen and Miss M. White will be among the contestants for the Ladies race, a handicap over fifty yards. There is also a boys' race over fifty yards, where the entries, I am told, are quite heavy.

While the V.R.C. appear to have a profusion of talent for free style events, they are somewhat backward in the breast stroke. The members are, however, not satisfied to allow this state of affairs to continue and a determined effort seems to have been made by some of the more prominent swimmers to gain proficiency in the breast strokes. Amongst those who have gone seriously into training are E. B. da Rosa, E. M. Marques and B. Gogino, and these three will go a long way if they persevere.

LAWN BOWLS

Rumjahn Wins

In the Singles championship match played on the Civil Service green, D. Rumjahn, the Craigengower player beat P. O. Dunne of the Kowloon C.C. by 21-13. The winner was leading all the way, and it was evident throughout that he would eventually win.

On the Talkoo Club green, A. W. Grimmett beat J. S. Logan by 21-15.

(Deutscher Klub) lost to E. C. Fincher and Miss Griffiths 0-6, 4-6.

C. E. Watson and Mrs. Fischer (Deutscher Klub) beat S. A. Gray and Miss A. Mackenzie 6-3, 6-0.

WIMBLEDON TENNIS

Bunny Austin's Defeat

London, July 2.

Leading by two sets at the start of their quarter final tennis meeting at Wimbledon, Bunny Austin (Britain) was ousted in the next three sets by Frank Shields.

The British player was superb in the first and second sets, driving and volleying perfectly.

In the third set he led 3-1, but Shields then staged an amazing rally. The American speeded up his play and forced Austin into a series of errors which eventually saw the match level once again after the fourth set.

Austin led 3-0 in the final set, and was 30-love on his service at 6-4. Shields, however, again thrilled the crowded stands with brilliant drop shots which had his slower opponent helpless. In the twelfth game Shields aces the British hope to win the set and match.

Shields won by 4-6, 2-6, 7-5, 6-3, 7-5.

Stoefen and Jack Crawford were brilliant. Both players served superbly, often aces one another. The American amazed his critics by the manner in which he controlled his driving speed. He, however, went to pieces after the ninth game in the third set, failing to win another in the match.

Crawford won 7-5, 2-6, 7-5, 6-0.

Sidney Wood Wins

Sidney Wood outclassed J. V. Kirby, the South African champion, who caused a sensation by beating Von Cramm in the earlier round, his opponent only securing the third set through Wood trying stunt tactics.

The American was seen at his best in the final set when he swept Kirby off the court without the loss of a game. Kirby lost many points on double faults.

Wood won by 6-1, 6-4, 3-6, 6-3.—Reuter.

ANOTHER REPORT

London, July 2.

"Two Americans, one Englishman and one Australian qualified" on Monday for the semi-finals of the men's singles tennis championship at Wimbledon.

One of England's greatest hopes, Bunny Austin was eliminated by the young American giant, Francis X. Shields after a desperate struggle lasting five sets in which the Englishman won the first two in easy fashion, 4-6, 2-6, only to win and lose the next three by the score of 7-5, 6-3, 7-5.

F. J. Perry needed only four sets to defeat George M. Lott who, however, put up a stiff fight, the scores being 6-4, 2-6, 7-5, 10-8.

Jack Crawford, the holder, also needed four sets to put out Lester Stoefen, 7-5, 2-6, 7-5, 6-0, while Sidney Wood triumphed over Kirby 6-4, 6-1, 3-6, 6-0.—Transocean Kuo Min.

Enquiry At Commons

London, July 2.

Mr. A. He replied that it was quite impossible to base any sound conclusions in revenue returns relating only to the first quarter of the financial year.—British Wireless.

I will not delay them any longer. I have now the pleasure to call upon Sir William Shenton to distribute the prizes.

SIR WILLIAM SHENTON
Mr. Chairman, My Lord, Ladies and Gentlemen:

I regard it as indeed an honour, to have been asked to be present at your annual prize giving today, and to have the pleasure of presenting the certificates and prizes—particularly so as you are about to enter on the tenth year of your school's career, under circumstances calling for vital and far reaching decisions, because I gather the whole future of the school will shortly come under review.

You appear to have had considerable success in the public examinations and in addition to your very capable permanent staff, you have enlisted the sympathies of several volunteer helpers, which in itself indicates that you are worthy of real public support. You have on your side, and with you to-day My Lord the Bishop—you can have no better ally or more determined supporter.

I notice also that in addition to the ordinary educational curriculum, you have by no means neglected the physical training of your students, nor their moral development or religious culture. I believe the Munsang College will yet celebrate a Jubilee.

You have a great asset, and that is the prestige of your school, prestige may rest on a number of things, but behind everything else are the living ideas—the living ideas of your Council, your teachers and your scholars—it is they who make a school talked about with interest and admiration—it is they who are responsible for its success and development. Your every action, your every word are expressions of living ideas, and in this respect you have been most fortunate.

To-day is your prize day, and another milestone in the career of your school and I consider it a fitting opportunity to address a few words to your students. It is on these occasions that we must make a retrospect of the past—as to whether we have done well or badly, whether we have failed in our mission, or whether we have made the most of our opportunities.

It is also the occasion for thoughts as to the future, many of you have still some years of schooling before you and to those I say "Don't waste time," but there are also amongst your numbers some who stand on the threshold of your careers, and to those I say "There is no office in the state, no prize in professional life, no distinction in commercial enterprise, no achievement of scholarship, which does not lie open to the assault of your talents and application. In whatever branch of human activity you have resolved to engage, there are no barriers except those imposed by limitations of ability; by lack of character or industry; by the caprice of Fortune."

Western Education
You are, of course, peculiarly situated in this Colony. The educational machine in annually turning out students by the thousand. The local market is small and soon reaches saturation but you are fortunate in that you have a vast country at your very door, a country which is even more natural to you than this Colony—a country with real opportunities for service and which is daily calling to you for your assistance.

China with her National Economic Council formed with the object of elaborating plans for national reconstruction will embrace most forms of human activity and presents to you a real outlet for your abilities. There can be no question that politically, economically and socially China requires your assistance and never in her history has she needed it more than she does to-day.

There is another respect in which you are fortunate, this Colony has left no stone unturned to give you all she has to offer in the way of Western education, whether you agree with the system, or not is another matter, but this at least is certain if China wishes to take her place in the modern world, adopt it she must. Now Hong Kong offers you this opportunity within the circle of your own family and traditions—within the very sound of your temple bell.

Most of you will probably go into business and there are those who think that a good education is a graceful superfluity in a business man. They talk of it as though it were like a knowledge of mathematics in a medical man.

an interesting extra that may have a superiority value but can never be of any practical use.

A rule of thumb can be mastered by the time one is fifteen—but business cannot be run nowadays by rule of thumb. It requires "disciplined knowledge," which means a long accumulation of the best that men have written and said on subjects relating to business, clarified and hardened by concentrated thought and practical experience.

There is a rapidity of change, an unrelenting complexity about modern business which demands the highest standard of mental preparation and mental fitness.

"Business Education"
The days when a smattering of bookkeeping was regarded as a "business education," have long gone past. Languages, economics, economic history including the history of labour and of distribution, business law, these are some of the more general subjects which a man must have if his knowledge is to be wide and modern, if his judgment is to have the information essential to soundness.

The range should be wide. As Sir Josiah said: "There are certain curious notions that a successful scheme of higher education in economics and commerce requires a less advanced foundation of general knowledge than other callings such as law, medicine, teaching, the Church. Almost certainly the opposite is the case." The state of the world to-day can only be described as chaotic and the only means of saving civilisation for us and those who come after us is learning.

The greatest error you can possibly make is to wait till things get back to normal.

It would be instructive if we could find out all the different things that are meant by "normal." There used to be a notion that normal meant "prewar." People would say they were not going to "launch out during the present uncertainty," and waited till the declaration of peace would bring back the conditions of 1913—to-day 1926 and 1928 are spoken of as normal.

"They are, of course, still waiting. Year after year passes and still things refuse to get back to 'normal.'" People with any sense of fact now know that the conditions of 1913, 1925 and 1928 will never return.

The period of waiting grows longer and longer, opportunity after opportunity slips past, till, finally, when it is too late the hesitant leader decides that 1928 has as little chance of returning as 1913.

There is no commoner and more paralyzing form of bondage to the past than this belief that somewhere in the years that have gone there is a normal to which conditions must return. The truth is, of course, that there is no normal, because, general conditions like every form of human activity, is not an excursion followed by a return to status quo it is an inevitable and continual progress to new and unknown conditions.

The men who make progress in these days are those who ride the storm, not those who wait for the storm to subside.

If there is such a thing as a normal it is not an average of past years, only, it is an average of the past and the future—and the future is still unknown.

This year the campaign is again organised under the former organisations with the addition of the Hong Kong Y's Men's Club. The latter participated because it has under its organisation a Health Education Class to train up a group of young men for a period of six months to speak to the people in the New Territories and the congested areas in the Colony on matters of general hygiene and preventive medicine.

SANITARY BOARD MEETING

At the fortnightly meeting of the Sanitary Board yesterday, Mr. R. A. D. Forrest, the President, announced that in regard to the fees for special food licenses in the districts of Tai Hang, North Point and Shaikwan, a new set of ordinance to replace the Public Health and Building Ordinance was at present under consideration, but it was difficult to say when it would be ready. In any case the Government had decreed that this alteration of fees should wait in order to avoid unnecessary legislation until the new orders were decided.

Those present at the meeting were Mr. R. A. D. Forrest (President), Dr. J. M. Gray (Medical Officer of Health), Mr. L. C. F. Bellamy, Dr. R. A. de Castro Basto, Mr. C. J. Roe (Secretary) and Mr. Im Ping Tseung (assistant secretary).

STAFF COLLEGE CHANGES

Captain R. H. T. Ralke, D.S.O., is to relinquish to-day the post of Director of the R.N. Staff College, Greenwich, on the completion of his tenure in command. He is to become Commodore and Chief of Staff in the Mediterranean Fleet to Admiral Sir William Fisher, in succession to Rear-Admiral A. E. F. Bedford, C.B., who will go to Bombay to command the Royal Indian Marine. Captain G. J. A. Miles, Deputy Director, will act as Director of the Staff College until the arrival of Captain B. C. Watson, D.S.O., now in command of the battleship Valiant.

Captain Watson has served on the staff of the War College, Greenwich, and the Tactical School, Portsmouth. He went to sea from the Britannia 31 years ago as midshipman of the Malestic when she was flagship of the late Admiral Lord Beresford. During the War he was navigator of Admiral Tyrwhitt's flagships at Harwich, the Arethusa, Centaur, and Curacoa. He has twice served in the Plans Division at the Admiralty, and has commanded the sloop Hollyhock in China and the cruiser Curlew in the Mediterranean.

Ironical

"And do you know, my dear, on the third day of our honeymoon George won a first prize in the Irish Sweepstake."

"Good heavens," the girl blurted out. "Three days too late!"

GERMAN SHARE MARKET

Berlin, July 2.

While the great political events that took place on Saturday and Sunday resulted in a feeling of satisfaction and the strengthening of confidence on the bourse, the dealers and the public alike are regarding the position of the Government as immeasurably more secure than heretofore, there was little influence noticeable on the volume of business done in the sharemarket. Offer and demand were about equal. Fixed interest securities were not greatly changed although the State and provincial loans were weaker.

Call Money 4 1/2 to 4 3/4. Young Loan declined 1/8 to 153 1/8. Dreyfus 7/8 lower to 148 1/2. Salideturth Potash improved 1/2 to 172. German Steel Trusts 1/2 lower to 39 1/2. POLISH FLIERS

Reach Warsaw After Many Delays

Warsaw, July 2.

The Polish fliers, the brothers Adamowicz who took off from Harbour Grace in an attempt at a non-stop flight to Warsaw, finally reached their goal on Monday evening after having been forced by engine trouble for the third emergency landing at Torun, Poland. They, however, were able to make the necessary repairs and took off without much loss of time, reaching the Polish capital late in the afternoon.—Transocean Kuo Min.
